To Whom it May Concern:

I write in reference to Michelle Friedman and to recommend her services.

I recently had the pleasure of having Michelle present the training and team building component of our non-profit Board of Director's retreat. Michelle presented a workshop on strength-based leadership to the nine women Board of our women's organization, the Junior League of Central Westchester. The workshop focused on how each member of the Board could use her individual strengths to work together as a Board during the upcoming year and to lead the organization.

Michelle was articulate, insightful, extremely professional, prepared and motivating. She was able to engage even the quietest among us in discussion and motivate and encourage everyone. Each member of the Board left the training feeling empowered and confident in their ability to lead. As a Board, we felt as if we had really learned about one another and how we can use our strengths to work together in the upcoming year. Her presentation far exceed my expectations for the retreat. We look forward to welcoming Michelle this year to present a training to the entire membership of our organization.

Prior to the workshop, Michelle was extremely diligent in planning the retreat with me via phone and email. She was always prompt in answering questions and diligent in asking what my goals were and letting me know what she was planning. She was very easy to communicate with and is extremely well spoken and professional.

It is with great pleasure that I recommend Michelle to your organization.

Best regards,
